Billions Sought For Social Problems Facing The Nation

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Violence Commission said Friday the United States must begin spending more money on internal problems than on defense as soon as its role in the Vietnam War has ended.

Then, it said, military spending must be kept level while spending for the general welfare "should continue to increase until essential social goals are achieved."

The nation should start, the panel advised, by increasing spending for domestic problems by $20 billion a year after Vietnam—partly by cutting defense spending and partly through increased tax revenues resulting from the growth of the Gross National Product.

With that, the presidential commission wrapped up an 18-month study of the causes and prevention of violence in America—a study occasioned by the murders of Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. Asked whether the panel's nearly 100 recommendations over the months had a realistic chance of becoming part of the nation's fabric, Chairman Milton S. Eisenhower said Friday: "If in five years nothing has happened, I shall be the most disappointed man in America."

The 338-page final report was primarily a summary of the commission's nine separate reports on various facets of the violence problem, including a recapitulation of 81 recommendations issued with those reports.

Eisenhower said in a news conference he had delivered the final document Thursday to President Nixon.

"The President authorized me to say he is gravely concerned," he said.

News Of World In Brief

STEPPED UP ATTACKS
PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam and its Viet Cong ally stepped up their attacks on the Nixon administration today at a rally in the Communist suburb of Ivry.

Singled out for special denunciation by North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy and the Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh were Nixon's program of Vietnamizing the war and what they said was official U.S. downgrading of the Paris peace talks.

Neither of these delegates to the peace negotiations brought any new element to their contentions.

"They said the Vietnamization program — the notion of giving Saigon's armed forces a greater share of the war effort — demonstrated that the United States doesn't want to end the war."

COMPROMISE BILL

WASHINGTON D.C. — Congress sent to President Nixon yesterday a compromise $4.3 billion housing bill with provisions enabling more poor families to qualify for public housing.

First the Senate and then the House approved the bill, a compromise of varying versions they had passed earlier.

Among other things, the bill contains a new provision requiring that, for each slum home or apartment razed as part of an urban renewal project, a new low-income dwelling unit would have to be built in the city or county involved.

SAN DIEGO — State Controller Houston I. Flournoy has announced that a statewide examination will be conducted on March 14, 1970, to develop a list of qualified candidates for future appointments as State Inheritance Tax Appraisers.

The State Personnel Board will administer the four-hour writ-

Those who qualify through the examination will be placed on an eligibility list for consideration of appointment when vacancies occur in their counties.

Antelope Scouts Plan Sale Of Christmas Trees

Boy Scout Troop 94 will hold a one-day sale of Silvertip Christmas trees Tuesday, beginning in the afternoon after school and continuing to 9 p.m., in the Jerome Edgar Memorial Hall in Antelope.

The hall is on the south side of Antelope Blvd. across from Tops Drive-in.

The Scouts cut the trees near Mineral under special permit, led by scoutmaster Mort Seeliger and senior patrol leader Curtis Hutton. They will sell them for a dollar a foot to raise money to buy equipment for the troop.

Two Sheriff's Men Graduate From Special Course

Sgt. Marvin Essex and Al Perry of the Tehama County Sheriff's department have been graduated from a "middle management" course for police officers held by the College of the Redwoods, Eureka, and Humboldt State College, Arcata. The ceremony was held in Eureka.

The course included principles of administration, modern police organization. Under implementation was research, planning and analysis, deployment, utilization of personnel, and effective community relations program management. Other sections of the course included psychology of leadership, effective communication and conference leadership.

This achievement qualifies the men toward an intermediate certificate. The course was for 80 hours and the pair will receive 10 units which applies to an A.A. degree.

The course cost was $300 per man. The county has a $200 grant for each man from federal and state funds.

Swimming Pool OK'd By Shasta Trustees; Builder Praises College

Trustees of the Shasta - Tehama-Trinity Joint Junior College District accepted a "substantially completed" set of swimming pools at their regular board meeting. Acceptance came on the recommendation of architect, Bill Poole.

While accepting the major project, Trustees also voted the November progress payment of $22,386.60 to contractor Max Schenk on the pools, which virtually completed the financial obligation on the pools. Held back temporarily was 11 per cent of the contract, as called for by law.

Schenk, who also had good words for the college — "cooperation from college officials and architect have been excellent" — noted that a number of minor items have yet to be installed. "The pool is now operable," he said, "and most of the remaining installations can be made quickly."

Trustee Roland Robinson also commented favorably on the project. "I have been impressed with the manner in which the project was completed," he said.

The heated pool system includes both diving and swimming pools.

The Trustees received both good and bad news in another construction area. A letter from Sidney W. Brossman, chancellor, California Community Colleges, approved plans for additional outdoor playing fields and a radio and TV production building, but postponed a combination science lecture hall and planetarium.

Dr. Gilbert A. Collier, president-superintendent, said that the two facilities should be started by August, 1970, so that planning and construction should start within the coming year, if state funds are available.

Dr. Collier said that he had received unofficial encouragement that the science facility might be approved for the following year.

Trustees tabled for further study a proposal to purchase two IBM magnetic tape selectric typewriters for the business education division but did approve the lease of additional computer equipment in the first of five steps to increase the potential of the college's data processing system.

Division Chairman, Leo Chiantelli, assisted by instructor, Gary Caswell, and IBM representative, Robert Brown, made the presentation concerning the desired equipment. It was indicated that computer equipment will enable the college to program in mathematics, engineering, and science, and will be used for both instructional and business purposes.

With regard to the typewriters, trustees raised questions as to how much use the machines would be in training students for what appeared to be a limited market. Brown noted that the training would qualify students for a labor market which includes the Bay Area, an overall area in which "hundreds of the machines are now in use."

Chiantelli noted that advanced secretarial students would take the course involving the machines.

The typewriters were described as equipment which had been eliminated from earlier budget considerations until it was known that additional funds would be available.

Trustees approved a proposed course in American Indian Culture and History which is to be taught in the spring semester. Dean of Instruction, Milton

Black, presented the three-unit course which he said, "will place an emphasis upon the study of the modern Indian, his present condition, and his achievements."

The tentative outline of the course included such study topics as, "the Indians in history," "education: types of schools for Indians," and "social institutions: types of Indian institutions throughout North America."

Trustees were told by Dr. Collier that Shasta College was one of twenty-five state community colleges which qualified under the Extended Opportunity Program. The state received applications from seventy-one colleges.

The tentative school calendar for 1970-71, substantially the same as this year's, was approved by the board. With school starting on Sept. 10 and closing on June 14, the school year will total 175 days.

Trustee Thomas Ludden noted what he termed "a misunderstanding by some residents in the area" that the Shasta campus could eventually become a state college campus.

Associate Dean, Lloyd Livingston, reported briefly on the progress of developing a State Vocational Education Advisory system. He noted that the state has now been divided into regions. Shasta College is located in a region which includes the northeast corner of the State as far south as Nevada and Yuba counties.

Trustees approved two personnel changes. Allen B. Goode, custodian, was reclassified to the position of laundry-swimming pool operation and maintenance. Trelawney T. "Ted" Tomer was hired as a security officer.

Cliff Taylor Gives Program At Manton

MANTON — Cliff Taylor, weather reporter for the Redding television channel, presented one of his object lesson programs at the Manton Community church.

The story of Daniel in the Lions Den was narrated with the use of magic to illustrate the objectives of the story and with the assistance of Rusty, the impertinent puppet.

Taylor, an accomplished performer, has presented programs for school assemblies, service clubs, banquets and fund raising events as well as for churches.

Epsilon Chi Meets At Western Home

Peggy Western hosted 19 members of Epsilon Chi for the December business meeting conducted by the president, Joyce Selby.

Discussions included the possibility of a spring dance and rushing for new members, both topics to be decided at a later meeting. A report was given on the successful winter formal.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party to be held at the home of Kay Lewis, where secret pals will be revealed and new names drawn for the coming year.

Farm Price Index At Highest Level Since '52

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm prices in November were at their highest average since 1952. That's bad for the Nixon administration's campaign against inflation, says a farm expert, but not a cause for undue alarm among consumers.

Dr. Don Paarlberg, economics director for the Agriculture Department, said in an interview that despite the three per cent price rise for farm products last month (there is considerable margin now between farm prices and retail costs).

The margin, Paarlberg said, should serve as a cushion between monthly fluctuations in what farmers receive and what consumers have to pay.

Early this year farm prices rose rapidly and by June — led by near-record cattle prices—had eaten away most of the wholesale-retail profit margin. Paarlberg said wholesale and retail food merchants now are in a better position to absorb some increases in farm product prices without passing them along to consumers.

There has been some cooling off in the rate of increase, he said, but it may be premature to say what effect this will have on consumer food prices.

The Agriculture Department's monthly price index showed that farmers received 285 per cent of the 1910-14 index average, the most since September 1952.

Record high prices were reported for vegetables, up 24 per cent from a year ago. Eggs rose 22 per cent from October and at 48.8 cents a dozen paid to farmers were the most since 1953.

Hogs were $25 per hundred-weight, the most on record for November, officials said.

"I don't think consumers should complain about the situation right now," Paarlberg said, "and stockmen should be encouraged."

Total meat supplies are running only a little ahead of last year's record output.

Cattlemen Elect Jack Owens Veep

Red Bluff cattleman Jack Owens has been elected to a three year term as second vice president of the California Cattlemen's Association at their 53rd annual meeting just ended in Los Angeles. Owens is past president of the Tehama County Cattlemen's Association.

Blair Smith, Montague, Siskiyou County cattleman was re-elected as president of the state wide organization.

Governor Ronald Reagan gave

the opening address Monday, stressing the importance of the cattle industry as a part of the state's largest industry, agriculture. Reagan told the cattlemen that he would introduce legislation on tax reform that would base taxes on farm income rather than land value.

One of the keynote speakers was Bill Helming, manager of the cattle facts program. He predicted that the now strong market for cattle would continue to improve in the weeks and months ahead.

Oroville Physician Develops New Irrigation System

OROVILLE (AP) — Combine some pipe and some corrugated metal, and there it is — "Bailey's Instant Ditch."

It will, says the inventor, provide irrigation for whatever area desired at one-tenth the cost of other systems and without the usual problems of weeds, rodents and weather.

Dr. Todd Bailey, an Oroville physician, said he developed the instant ditch after experiencing irrigation difficulties on some of his grazing land.

The system starts with short lengths of pipe bent into M-shaped brackets. Lengths of corrugated sheet metal curved into troughs are laid across the brackets and hooked end-to-end by neoprene connectors to complete the system. The height of each bracket is adjustable.

Bailey adds that the system has one other advantage over the usual earth variety of ditch — it's light and portable.

Social Change Inevitable For Farm Families

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's farm families no longer can expect to avoid involvement in the process of social change, the head of the State Farm Bureau Federation has predicted.

Allan Grant, who also serves as president of the State Board of Agriculture, made the statement at the opening session of the federation's house of delegates meeting.

Grant recalled the battle with Cesar Chavez in his attempt to unionize grape workers, and remarked:

"I do not believe that our struggles of the past few years with Cesar Chavez and the followers of his cause will prove to be unique experiences. They are more apt to be patterns."

He predicted farmers "will be involved in many campaigns equal in score if not exceeding the one we now are carrying on against the grape boycott."

Entomologist Search For Beneficial Bugs

By CHARLES HILLINGER

Dr. Paul DeBach, a 54-year-old UC Riverside professor, spends most of his time running around the world chasing bugs.

During the last 25 years Dr. DeBach has logged more than 200,000 miles in his search for insects that feed on pests that attack citrus, vegetables, field crops, ornamentals, deciduous trees and other subtropical crops.

He has introduced more than 40 beneficial insects to this country that as far as is known never have existed here before. Dr. DeBach is a member of an exclusive fraternity of scientists. Fewer than 100 researchers in the world devote full time to the fascinating field of biological control of pests.

And only about a half dozen devote most of their time as globetrotting bug detectives.

Author of the classic work in his field, "Biological Control of Insect Pests and Weeds," the Riverside entomologist attributes his success to an early failure.

"What really got me excited about bugs," Dr. DeBach reported Wednesday, "was my failure to earn the Boy Scout merit badge for insects."

He was 14 and a student at Fairfax High School at the time. He has been hot on the trail of bugs ever since.

His travels have taken him to Mexico, Central and South America, Africa, Asia, Australia, the Pacific Isles, India, Pakistan, Europe, the Caribbean and many points in between.

He has "collaborators" continuously helping him in his search for beneficial insects to prey upon bad bugs.

Every so often a new pest appears in an American orchard or field creating instant havoc.

"Whenever something blows up, it's time to hop an airplane to some distant place to hunt for the natural enemy of the pest causing all the trouble," the professor explained.

That is how many of his foreign explorations begin.

"We search publications for clues. Generally a good place to start is the area of the world where the fruit or vegetable originated.

"If the crop is flourishing there, chances are beneficial insects are keeping the predator population down."

Sometimes the going is rough. Dr. DeBach's search for a beneficial insect that preys upon California red scale — a destructive fruit pest — led him to the jungles of Burma during the late 1950s, an area embroiled in guerrilla warfare.

A local sabwa (sultan) assigned Dr. DeBach three soldiers and a jeep to help him investigate some wild orange trees along the Chinese border.

"It complicated matters," explained Dr. DeBach. "The guerrillas were looking for soldiers, not scientists. Luckily we were not shot at."

It was on this trip that the entomologist brought back a tiny golden wasp — 1/32nd of an inch long — unknown to scientists until then.

Dr. DeBach called the wasp Aphytis melinus. Today there are millions of them thriving in Southern California orange groves feasting on red scale, saving growers an estimated $1 million a year.

It has infested back yard orange trees in the San Diego area and fears are that it will spread to commercial orchards.

Sunkist Will Use All Of Orange Crop

FRESNO (AP) — Officials of Sunkist Growers, Inc., say they will not dump unsold fresh oranges grown by members in the San Joaquin Valley but will divert them into by-products as in past years.

"Recent reports out of San Joaquin Valley regarding the dumping of oranges not available for fresh fruit marketing have no bearing on Sunkist's operations," Sunkist General Manager D. M. Anderson told a news conference Tuesday.

"We plan to market 100 per cent of the harvest of our members," he said.

A record 40,000 car crop of navel oranges is being harvested in the valley, with 25 per cent to be diverted from the fresh and export market under a federal pro-rate program.

"The Sunkist program calls for orderly disposition of all surplus and cull fruit at the orange products plant in Ontario," said Grant Kuechel, manager of the Mid-California Citrus Exchange at Visalia.

The Ontario plant converts fresh fruit into canned and frozen juice, as well as more than 300 different food and industrial products.

Kuechel said the Ontario plant recently completed an $8 million expansion program to handle the increasing volume of fruit from California and Arizona orchards.

Support Agriculture

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A federal agriculture official has urged business and professional men to actively support interests of agriculture.

"Agriculture is big business and you have a vested interest in it," James V. Smith, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of agriculture told the Kiwanis Club.

Smith said agriculture-related business represents about 40 per cent of the jobs in the entire American economic scene.

California Getting Hooked On Catfish

Interest in catfish farming as another agricultural enterprise is growing because of increasing popularity of this food fish.

As a result a California catfish conference will be held Jan. 20 and 21. The conference is being organized by the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, the California Department of Fish and Game, and the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. It will be held in the El Rancho Hotel, West Sacramento.

Ken Ellis, Tehama County farm advisor, said that persons interested in attending the "catfish conference" or receiving the proceedings of the conference should contact his office at Red Bluff. A notice and agenda will be mailed to those interested in attending, Ellis said.

Maynard W. Cummings, UC extension wildlife specialist, pointed out that catfish have joined the ranks of the franchise food specialty businesses, along with hamburgers, fried chicken, and pancakes.

To supply the catfish demand, he said, will require firm and increasing supplies of pondraised fish. Scientifically managed on-the-farm ponds can provide the catfish needed to support franchise markets, according to Cummings. There also may be some recreational benefits to the public.

"The opportunity," Cummings said, "is attractive to farmers looking for new ways to boost agricultural returns or expand ranching enterprises. Catfish-raising is particularly attractive to rice farmers, who have both suitable land and long experience in pond water management but is not limited to these areas alone."

The catfish franchise development has moved from the South, Cummings noted, and is rapidly spreading into northern and western states, including California. He said the fish are rapidly becoming popular as a food because, being raised in clean water ponds, they are said to be sweet-flavored—unlike the more familiar "mud-cats" native to many inland waterways.

The January conference will deal with marketing and production problems, fish breeding, nutrition and feeding, and control of disease and pests that attack catfish.

Egg Prices Are Up And The Hens Can't Do Anything To Help

Prepare yourselves, egg buyers. Prices are up and the hens can't do anything about it.

They're laying at record rates and there's no shortage. The price, now about 67 cents a dozen for large AA eggs, is determined by a handful of traders in New York.

Although these men buy and sell only about four tenths of the nation's egg supply daily, their deals determine domestic prices.

This system, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is "not consistent" with nationwide supply and demand. Prices can fluctuate four cents a dozen a day.

Until there's a better pricing index housewives will continue to pay prices determined by New York City institutional purchases.

Farm Bureau Airs Views On Welfare

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has said "it is time to rid the United States of welfare state policies" and return the country to a healthy climate of private enterprise.

His remarks are in a speech to the Farm Bureau's 50th anniversary convention being held here this week.

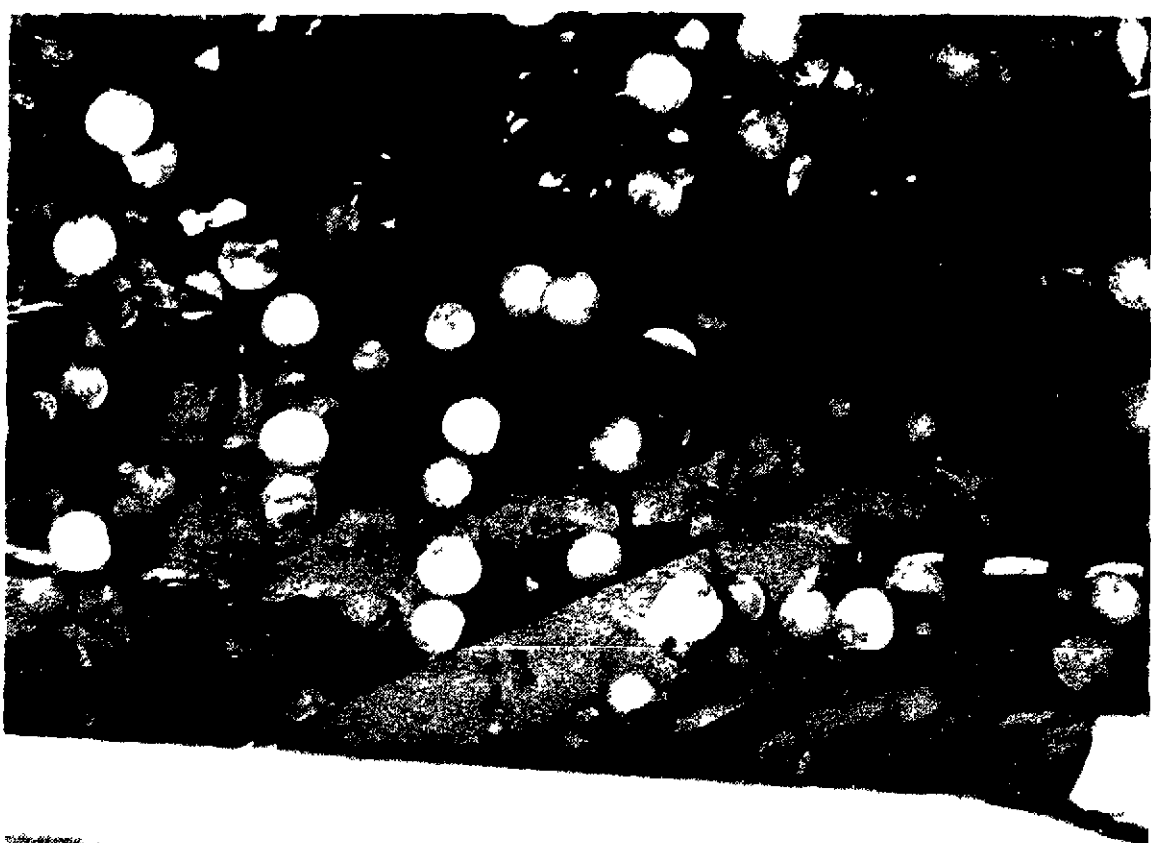

What we need in America is a big dose of courage," Shuman said, "courage to take a position on controversial issues; courage to reject compromise between good and evil; courage to take a stand on moral issues; courage to refuse to be 'bought' by government payments or private bribes."

A new Congress, Shuman said, could bring necessary change if it is willing to control federal spending and assume a greater responsibility for stabilizing the economy.

"Much of the bitterness and frustration which is evidenced in the demonstrations and riots is in part a byproduct of government fiscal irresponsibility," Shuman charged.

The Farm Bureau, the nation's largest general farm organization, has been a longtime foe of government controls and payments. The group favors a gradual phasing out of farm programs in favor of a free market system for producers.

FIELD NOTES

Fruit And Vegetable Standards Protects Agricultural Interests

By BOB COMPTON

Agricultural Inspector The Fruit and Vegetable Standards were originally enacted in a special standardization act by the California Legislature in 1915. The purpose of fruit and vegetable standards is to promote and protect the agricultural industry by raising the quality of farm produce sold to the consumer. The sale of wormy fruit and immature oranges and melons resulted in a request to the 1915 session of the legislature to enact laws on a statewide basis requiring compliance with minimum standards.

These standards require that fruit and vegetables be free from mold, decay, and rot, serious damage due to other causes, and minimum maturity. In 1935 standards for honey and eggs were enacted by the California legislature. The producers and handlers came to the realization that considerable harm was being done to their markets by unscrupulous handlers in that certain honey was mislabeled as to quality and in some instances so low in quality as to be undesirable for human food, which did great harm to the industry.

In 1956 provisions were added to the agriculture code for poultry meat classification, which included chickens, turkeys, rabbits, ducks and geese. The individual carcasses and packages of poultry meat are required to be marked with standard classes so that the purchaser may be informed. Example of these classes are fryer, roaster, stewing chicken, young turkey, etc.

Enforcement of these provisions of the agriculture code is made by the Calif. State Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Fruit and Vegetable Standardization, and also at county levels, by the County Agricultural Commissioner and his inspectors.

The county agricultural departments inspect fruit, nuts, produce, eggs, honey and poultry at packing plants, wholesale markets, retail outlets and storage plants.

LAMBS HEAVIER NOW

An average lamb carcass in 1940 weighed 41 pounds. Today, through advanced techniques in breeding and feeding, an average American lamb carcass weighs about 55 pounds.

No worries with Diazinon in your dormant spray

With indications that San Jose scale in stone fruits and almonds will be up in 1970, you'll need a particularly good scale program to keep them down.

The way to start is with a dormant spray of Diazinon* insecticide and oil. This can greatly reduce overwintering scale populations. Because nothing beats Diazinon at controlling San Jose scale.

And Diazinon and oil will penetrate deep into cracks and under bark to seek out twig borers and aphid and mite eggs, too. It's the best protection you can give stone fruits and almonds.

No posting required when you use Diazinon. Just follow label directions and it won't interfere with pruning.

Farm Price Index At Highest Level Since '52

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm prices in November were at their highest average since 1952. That's bad for the Nixon administration's campaign against inflation, says a farm expert, but not a cause for undue alarm among consumers.

Dr. Don Paarlberg, economics director for the Agriculture Department, said in an interview that despite the three per cent price rise for farm products last month there is considerable margin now between farm prices and retail costs.

The margin, Paarlberg said, should serve as a cushion between monthly fluctuations in what farmers receive and what consumers have to pay.

Early this year farm prices rose rapidly and by June — led by near-record cattle prices—had eaten away most of the wholesale-retail profit margin. Paarlberg said wholesale and retail food merchants now are in a better position to absorb some increases in farm product prices without passing them along to consumers.

There has been some cooling off in the rate of increase, he said, but it may be premature to say what effect this will have on consumer food prices.

The Agriculture Department's monthly price index showed that farmers received 285 per cent of the 1910-14 index average, the most since September 1952.

Record high prices were reported for vegetables, up 24 per cent from a year ago. Eggs rose 22 per cent from October and at 48.8 cents a dozen paid to farmers were the most since 1953. Hogs were $25 per hundred-weight, the most on record for November, officials said.

"I don't think consumers should complain about the situation right now," Paarlberg said, "and stockmen should be encouraged."

Total meat supplies are running only a little ahead of last year's record output.

Cattlemen Elect Jack Owens Veep

Red Bluff cattlemen Jack Owens has been elected to a three year term as second vice president of the California Cattlemen's Association at their 53rd annual meeting just ended in Los Angeles. Owens is past president of the Tehama County Cattlemen's Association.

Blair Smith, Montague, Siskiyou County cattlemen was re-elected as president of the state wide organization.

Governor Ronald Reagan gave

the opening address Monday, stressing the importance of the cattle industry as a part of the states largest industry, agriculture. Reagan told the cattlemen that he would introduce legislation on tax reform that would base taxes on farm income rather than land value.

One of the keynote speakers was Bill Helming, manager of the cattle facts program. He predicted that the now strong market for cattle would continue to improve in the weeks and months ahead.

Oroville Physician Develops New Irrigation System

OROVILLE (AP) — Combine some pipe and some corrugated metal, and there it is — "Bailey's Instant Ditch."

It will, says the inventor, provide irrigation for whatever area desired at one-tenth the cost of other systems and without the usual problems of weeds, rodents and weather.

Dr. Todd Bailey, an Oroville physician, said he developed the instant ditch after experiencing irrigation difficulties on some of his grazing land.

The system starts with short lengths of pipe bent into M-shaped brackets. Lengths of corrugated sheet metal curved into troughs are laid across the brackets and hooked end-to-end by neoprene connectors to complete the system. The height of each bracket is adjustable.

Bailey adds that the system has one other advantage over the usual earth variety of ditch — it's light and portable.

Social Change Inevitable For Farm Families

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's farm families no longer can expect to avoid involvement in the process of social change, the head of the State Farm Bureau Federation has predicted.

Allan Grant, who also serves as president of the State Board of Agriculture, made the statement at the opening session of the federation's house of delegates meeting.

Grant recalled the battle with Cesar Chavez in his attempt to unionize grape workers, and remarked:

"I do not believe that our struggles of the past few years with Cesar Chavez and the followers of his cause will prove to be unique experiences. They are more apt to be patterns."

He predicted farmers "will be involved in many campaigns equal in scale if not exceeding the one we now are carrying on against the grape boycott."

Entomologist Search For Beneficial Bugs

By CHARLES HILLINGER

Dr. Paul DeBach, a 54-year-old UC Riverside professor, spends most of his time running around the world chasing bugs.

During the last 25 years Dr. DeBach has logged more than 200,000 miles in his search for insects that feed on pests that attack citrus, vegetables, field crops, ornamentals, deciduous trees and other subtropical crops.

He has introduced more than 40 beneficial insects to this country that as far as is known never have existed here before.

Dr. DeBach is a member of an exclusive fraternity of scientists. Fewer than 100 researchers in the world devote full time to the fascinating field of biological control of pests.

And only about a half dozen devote most of their time as globetrotting bug detectives.

Author of the classic work in his field, "Biological Control of Insect Pests and Weeds," the Riverside entomologist attributes his success to an early failure.

"What really got me excited about bugs," Dr. DeBach reported Wednesday, "was my failure to earn the Boy Scout merit badge for insects."

He was 14 and a student at Fairfax High School at the time. He has been on the trail of bugs ever since.

His travels have taken him to Mexico, Central and South America, Africa, Asia, Australia, the Pacific Isles, India, Pakistan, Europe, the Caribbean and many points in between.

He has "collaborators" continuously helping him in his search for beneficial insects to prey upon bad bugs.

Every so often a new pest appears in an American orchard or field creating instant havoc.

"Whenever something blows up, it's time to hop an airplane to some distant place to hunt for the natural enemy of the pest causing all the trouble," the professor explained.

That is how many of his foreign explorations begin.

"We search publications for clues. Generally a good place to start is the area of the world where the fruit or vegetable originated."

"If the crop is flourishing there, chances are beneficial insects are keeping the predator population down."

Sometimes the going is rough. Dr. DeBach's search for a beneficial insect that preys upon California red scale — a destructive fruit pest — led him to the jungles of Burma during the late 1950s, an area embroiled in guerrilla warfare.

A local sabwa (sultan) assigned Dr. DeBach three soldiers and a jeep to help him investigate some wild orange trees along the Chinese border.

"It complicated matters," explained Dr. DeBach. "The guerrillas were looking for soldiers, not scientists. Luckily we were not shot at."

It was on this trip that the entomologist brought back a tiny golden wasp — 1/32nd of an inch long — unknown to scientists until then.

Dr. DeBach called the wasp Aphytis melinus. Today there are millions of them thriving in Southern California orange groves feasting on red scale, saving growers an estimated $1 million a year.

It has infested back yard orange trees in the San Diego area and fears are that it will spread to commercial orchards.

Sunkist Will Use All Of Orange Crop

FRESNO (AP) — Officials of Sunkist Growers, Inc., say they will not dump unsold fresh oranges grown by members in the San Joaquin Valley but will divert them into by-products as in past years.

"Recent reports out of San Joaquin Valley regarding the dumping of oranges not available for fresh fruit marketing have no bearing on Sunkist's operations," Sunkist General Manager D. M. Anderson told a news conference Tuesday.

"We plan to market 100 per cent of the harvest of our members," he said.

A record 40,000 car crop of navel oranges is being harvested in the valley, with 25 per cent to be diverted from the fresh and export market under a federal pro-rate program.

"The Sunkist program calls for orderly disposition of all surplus and cull fruit at the orange products plant in Ontario," said Grant Kuechel, manager of the Mid-California Citrus Exchange at Visalia.

The Ontario plant converts fresh fruit into canned and frozen juice, as well as more than 300 different food and industrial products.

Kuechel said the Ontario plant recently completed an $8 million expansion program to handle the increasing volume of fruit from California and Arizona orchards.

Support Agriculture

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A federal agriculture official has urged business and professional men to actively support interests of agriculture.

"Agriculture is big business and you have a vested interest in it," James V. Smith, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of agriculture told the Kiwanis Club.

Smith said agriculture-related business represents about 40 per cent of the jobs in the entire American economic scene.

California Getting Hooked On Catfish

Interest in catfish farming as another agricultural enterprise is growing because of increasing popularity of this food fish.

As a result a California catfish conference will be held Jan. 20 and 21. The conference is being organized by the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, the California Department of Fish and Game, and the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. It will be held in the El Rancho Hotel, West Sacramento.

Ken Ellis, Tehama County farm advisor, said that persons interested in attending the "catfish conference" or receiving the proceedings of the conference should contact his office at Red Bluff. A notice and agenda will be mailed to those interested in attending, Ellis said.

Maynard W. Cummings, UC extension wildlife specialist, pointed out that catfish have joined the ranks of the franchise food specialty businesses, along with hamburgers, fried chicken, and pancakes.

To supply the catfish demand, he said, will require firm and increasing supplies of pond-

raised fish. Scientifically managed on-the-farm ponds can provide the catfish needed to support franchise markets, according to Cummings. There also may be some recreational benefits to the public.

"The opportunity," Cummings said, "is attractive to farmers looking for new ways to boost agricultural returns or expand ranching enterprises. Catfish-raising is particularly attractive to rice farmers, who have both suitable land and long experience in pond water management but is not limited to these areas alone."

The catfish franchise development has moved from the South, Cummings noted, and is rapidly spreading into northern and western states, including California. He said the fish are rapidly becoming popular as a food because, being raised in clean water ponds, they are said to be sweetflavored—unlike the more familiar "mud-cats" native to many inland waterways.

The January conference will deal with marketing and production problems, fish breeding, nutrition and feeding, and control of disease and pests that attack catfish.

Driver Fears Next Tire The Last

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The American tire industry has had a blowout with its biggest customer, the ordinary motorist. Government reports recently have made the driver fear the next tire he buys may be his last. But instead of dropping everything to make safer tires, the tire companies are trying to change their image with a new $425,000 publicity campaign.

They are also working quietly in the halls of Congress to water down tire-safety measures. The new Tire Industry Safety Council is the heart of the publicity campaign. It is financed by quarter-of-a-cent-per-tire donations from the tire companies — passed on, naturally, to the tire buyers.

The Tire Industry Safety Council's name is deceiving. It grew out of a meeting in Akron last May among tire company executives and their trade group, the Rubber Manufacturers Association.

At the May meeting in the Akron Tower Motor Inn, the talk wasn't so much about how to make tires safer but about how to stuff gravel in the mouths of consumer advocates who call for safer tires.

"Such men as Ralph Nader and Sen. Gaylord Nelson can be expected to continue to harass the industry until and unless we can make it uncomfortable to do so," said a secret report of the Rubber Manufacturers Association under discussion that day.

SECRET SKULDDUGGERY

The secret document presented behind closed doors suggested that to counteract Nelson, the United Rubber Workers Union could be encouraged to attack him for insulting "skilled workers" who make tires. It also recommended "nudging Nelson" into the politically ticklish area of state motor vehicle inspections.

The tire makers, however, did not seem to know what to do about Nader.

The secret report also listed the 105 members of Congress with tire plants in their districts and suggested how to lobby them. It urged treating the press to all-expenses-paid trips to tire test tracks in order to "assure good exposure."

As for tire safety, the Transportation Department — supposed protector of the public — was described at the meeting in the most friendly terms. This is understandable because, in 1967, the Department swallowed without a grimace the tire industry's inadequate recommendations for federal safety standards.

"The Department of Transportation and the National Highway Safety Bureau should not be considered in the enemy camp. Nor should Sen. Magnuson, to whom Nelson and Nader are thorns in the side," said the discussion report.

This should come as a surprise to Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who has rammed one tough consumer safety measure after another through his Senate Commerce Committee.

PUBLICITY VS. SAFETY

The outgrowth of the Akron meeting was not more tire safety, therefore, but a new organization with a bigger publicity megaphone — the Tire Industry Safety Council. Parent of the council is the Rubber Manufacturers Association whose president, Ross Ormsby, is also chairman of the council.

Driver Fears Next Tire The Last

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The American tire industry has had a blowout with its biggest customer, the ordinary motorist. Government reports recently have made the driver fear the next tire he buys may be his last. But instead of dropping everything to make safer tires, the tire companies are trying to change their image with a new $425,000 publicity campaign.

They are also working quietly in the halls of Congress to water down tire-safety measures.

The new Tire Industry Safety Council is the heart of the publicity campaign. It is financed by quarter-of-a-cent-per-tire donations from the tire companies — passed on, naturally, to the tire buyers.

The Tire Industry Safety Council's name is deceiving. It grew out of a meeting in Akron last May among tire company executives and their trade group, the Rubber Manufacturers Association.

At the May meeting in the Akron Tower Motor Inn, the talk wasn't so much about how to make tires safer but about how to stuff gravel in the mouths of consumer advocates who call for safer tires.

"Such men as Ralph Nader and Sen. Gaylord Nelson can be expected to continue to harass the industry until and unless we can make it uncomfortable to do so," said a secret report of the Rubber Manufacturers Association under discussion that day.

SECRET SKULDDUGGERY
The secret document presented behind closed doors suggested to counteract Nelson, the United Rubber Workers Union could be encouraged to attack him for insulting "skilled workers" who make tires. It also recommended "nudging Nelson" into the politically ticklish area of state motor vehicle inspections.

The tire makers, however, did not seem to know what to do about Nader.

The secret report also listed the 105 members of Congress with tire plants in their districts and suggested how to lobby them. It urged treating the press to all-expenses-paid trips to tire test tracks in order to "assure good exposure."

As for tire safety, the Transportation Department — supposed protector of the public — was described at the meeting in the most friendly terms. This is understandable because, in 1967, the Department swallowed without a grimace the tire industry's inadequate recommendations for federal safety standards.

"The Department of Transportation and the National Highway Safety Bureau should not be considered in the enemy camp. Nor should Sen. Magnuson, to whom Nelson and Nader are thorns in the side," said the discussion report.

This should come as a surprise to Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who has rammed one tougher consumer safety measure after another through his Senate Commerce Committee.

PUBLICITY VS. SAFETY
The outgrowth of the Akron meeting was not more tire safety, therefore, but a new organization with a bigger publicity megaphone — the Tire Industry Safety Council. Parent of the council is the Rubber Manufacturers Association whose president, Ross Ormsby, is also chairman of the council.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Dec. 13, the 347th day of 1969. There are 18 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1577, Sir Francis Drake, the English navigator, began his history-making voyage around the world.

In 1781, a day of prayer and thanksgiving was observed throughout the United States to mark the end of the Revolutionary War.

In 1797, the liberty-loving German poet Heinrich Heine was born.

In 1862, during the Civil War, Union troops were defeated by Confederates on Marye's Heights outside Fredericksburg, Va.

In 1918, in World War I, troops of the U. S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany.

In 1924, the American labor leader Samuel Gompers died.

In 1944, a Japanese suicide plane crashed into the U. S. Cruiser Nashville, killing 133 crewmen.

Ten years ago — Archbishop Makarios was elected by a two-to-one margin to be the first President of the yet unborn Republic of Cyprus.

Five years ago — Floods in South Vietnam drowned an estimated 500 persons and left some 2,000 homeless.

One year ago — President Johnson and Diaz Ordaz set off a blast to divert the Rio Grande River and reshape the U. S.-Mexican border, ending a century old dispute over the boundary.

Red Bluff Humbles Douglas

The Spartan eggbeater went to work again last night and came up with cotton candy. On the face of it, the 69 to 40 whirl over Douglas looked impressive but it leaves you wondering what will happen when the Spartans face real competition.

Red Bluff whirled into high gear with four minutes left in second quarter and in the next 10 minutes of play, they outscored the visitors from Nevada, 36 to 9. Douglas looked as though it had never seen a zone defense as it gave the ball away again and again. Red Bluff made 38 interceptions and recoveries in the game. On top of that, when the starting team gets hot, they don't miss very much at all.

The first four minutes of the second quarter, the Spartans were stealing the ball but missing their shots. They led 24 to 14. Then suddenly, Gary Mills hit a jump shot and Dennis Poulton threw in two quick lay-ups. Mills and Gary Burchfield kept up the pressure to give Red Bluff a 38 to 18 lead at halftime.

The third quarter began with a steal and then a basket by Burchfield. The Spartans began to move faster and faster up the court. Bob Clements displayed some excellent passing and the combination of Clements, Burchfield and Chet Christensen looked like a re-run of the old Boston Celtics.

The open man always got the ball. With four minutes left, they led 50 to 20. Two minutes later, it was 60 to 23. Coach Bernie Gleason halted the scoring orgy at this point by pulling out the first team. The second and third string played the rest of the game.

Red Bluff had three double figure scorers. Gary Burchfield was high with 13 while Bob Clements and Gary Mills both had 12.

The two teams will meet again tonight with the JV game at 6:30.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The junior varsity game wasn't much of a contest either. Red Bluff won easily 47 to 35.

The first quarter was relatively close with a 15 to 8 difference. But this resulted largely from poor Red Bluff shooting. They had control of the boards. Larry Botts began to hit in the second quarter and the team broke the Douglas zone quite efficiently to lead at the half, 31 to 14. The second half was more of the same. The Spartans got sloppy in the fourth quarter but managed to maintain their lead. The reserves gave up some points to make the final score far closer than the game itself. Nick Parry was high scorer for Red Bluff with 17 while Botts hit for 10.

FRESHMAN

The Spartan freshman team managed a reversal in the pattern as they dropped a 60 to 39 decision at the hands of the Nova Dunkers.

It was a case of second half disaster for Red Bluff. At half, they trailed by one, 25 to 24. But then they ran into trouble, largely self made. They lost the ball 32 times during the encounter. Russ Savercool was high scorer for Red Bluff with 12 points, Curt Smith was top rebounder.

Thurmond's Absence Good For Milwaukee

By AL MOSS
MILWAUKEE — The Warriors had to use a second-string center and an injured forward last night, and, as expected, lost to the Milwaukee Bucks — the third straight defeat.

The Bucks won, 123-109. San Francisco had to open with Dale Schueter at center, in place of the absent Nate Thurmond, and Joe Ellis at forward, in place of several players.

Thurmond had to attend his grandmother's funeral in Akron, Ohio yesterday and was not able to make it to Milwaukee in time for the game.

Ellis, although suffering from a torn tendon in the baby finger of his right hand, was forced to start because Dave Gambee — who had been playing in place of Ellis — injured his foot Thursday night.

Of course, the Warriors still were without the usual starter, Jerry Lucas, who has a broken hand.

Still, San Francisco, picking up the slack, was able to spurt into a 19-15 lead late in the first quarter and at the end of the period was ahead, 24-23.

San Francisco fell behind early in the second quarter, but then, with the surprising Schlueter scoring over Alcindor and Jeff Mullins popping in a couple from the outside, took a 54-49 halftime lead.

The Warriors were ahead at intermission despite watching Milwaukee get a tremendous advantage on the free throw line in the second period.

The Bucks shot 15 free throws in that quarter to four for San Francisco.

Joe Ellis had 11 points for the Warriors at the half, as San Francisco made 36.8 per cent of its shots as compared to 40 per cent for Milwaukee.

Even though without Thurmond and Lucas, San Francisco still dominated the boards, out-rebounding Milwaukee by 10 at the half. Schlueter had 11 rebounds, while Lew Alcindor Milwaukee had only 10.

Schueter, a second-year man from Colorado State who has about as much finesse as a longshoreman, made five of six shot attempts in the half, out-scoring and out-playing the taller more-talented Alcindor.

Ellis, obviously bothered by the finger, made only four of 14 field goal attempts and Fritz Williams got only one of 11. Still the Warriors led.

That margin was increased to seven, 56-49, in the opening minutes of the third quarter, but Milwaukee came storming back, scoring six in a row at one point, and surged into a seven-point lead, 65-61.

Jon McGlockin was the big gun for Milwaukee, hitting three straight jump shots during the rally.

Bob Lewis cut a point off that difference, but buckets by Greg Smith's and Alcindor made it, 72-62, Milwaukee with 6:27 left in the third quarter.

Poor Shooting Gives Los Molinos Trouble

Los Molinos Bulldogs took an amazing total of 80 shots in their game last night against Princeton. Unfortunately, not very many of these shots went in the basket and the Bulldogs dropped a 68 to 47 decision.

The game was fairly close the first half with Princeton leaving the court ahead by five points, 30 to 25. But the Bulldogs shooting turned into ice cubes in the second half. They wound up hitting only 19 of 80 shots, for a 21 per cent shooting mark.

The number of shots taken was impressive for a high school team but the number of shots missed was equally impressive.

Center Steve Woodill led the Bulldogs scoring with 16 points. Kevin Brunnermer helped out with another 12.

The junior varsity continued their winning ways, defeating Princeton in the preliminary game. Greg Farley was high scorer with 20 points.

Los Molinos is back in action tonight at home. They play Fort Jones. The junior varsity game begins at 6 and the varsity at 7:30.

Giants Give Up Pitchers

The Giants made two multi-player trades yesterday, giving up left-handed pitcher Ray Sadecki and outfielder Jim Marshall in one and right-handed Bobby Bolin in the other.

San Francisco obtained short-stop Bob Heise and outfielder Jim Gosger from the New York Mets for Sadecki and Marshall, while Bolin, 30, was sent to Seattle for outfielder Steve Whitaker and Dick Simpson.

Heise, 22, and Gosger, 27, performed most of last year with the Mets' farm club at Tidewater. Gosger also played briefly for the Oak-1968. Heise, all-International League short-stop, hit .282, and Gosger batted .346.

Sadecki, a 20-game winner with St. Louis in 1964, never lived up to his promise with the Giants who obtained him for Orland Cepeda in 1967. He was 5-8 last year. Marshall played in 110 games with the Giants last year while Bolin was 7-7.

Whitaker, originally property of the New York Yankees, had six homeruns in 69 games with the Pilots last year. Simpson, 26, who was assigned to the Giant Phoenix farm club, batted .192 in 32 games with Seattle.

This was the third deal the Giants have concluded in the last three weeks. Earlier, they sent infielder Bob Etheridge, catcher Bob Burton and pitcher Ron Hereel to San Diego for relief pitcher Frank Reberger.

Next Year In Boston

By PHIL ELDERKIN
Sports writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Boston
The opportunity to knock is there.

But Red Auerbach, the general manager of the last-place Boston Celtics, so far has preferred another route. Auerbach is giving away hope the way some people distribute political handbills.

Red feels the Celtics can become a pro basketball power again as early as next season. And he may be right if (1) Larry Siegfried was not serious the other day when he said he might retire; (2) the team's two rookies, guard Jo Jo White and forward Steve Kuberski, improve enough to be starters or close to it; and (3) the Celtics finish last and are able to draft 6 ft. 11 in. center B-

Lanier of St. Bonaventure.

For No. 3 to happen, Boston would also have to win a coin flip with the league's other division tallender (probably Seattle) for the rights to Lanier. Auerbach describes Big Bob as a loosey-goosey pivotman, who was rusted out of the same herd as Baltimore's Wes Unseld.

The most popular way to beat the Celtics this year is to drive the middle — because if you don't get to the basket you've got a great chance to get the foul. Lanier has the size and quickness to eliminate that.

Boston fans, as if they didn't already know, have learned that hustle is no substitute for Russell. Nor are four guns the equal of one, providing that one belongs to Sam Jones.

Rookie coaches, like rookie ballplayers, often make telling mistakes. And Tommy Heinsohn is a rookie coach.

Whether Heinsohn has registered good, fair or poor on Auerbach's applause meter is hard to say. If Red is second-guessing his coach, he is doing it privately. In fact, he has given Heinle the same mantle of protectiveness with the press that he earlier hung on Russell.

Yet there are some things you cannot ignore. Floor unity used to be so much a part of the Celtics' game that it is strange now to watch Boston players throw the ball away so often. With Russell gone, the Celtics do not come to defend anymore.

NY Mets Winning Formula

CINCINNATI (AP) — The world champion New York Mets may not have been a powerful hitting club but their pitching and fielding records tell quite a story as to why they won the National League pennant.

Official league averages showed previously that the Mets were second in pitching. The fielding averages, released today, showed they also were tied for second in that category. They were only eighth in batting.

The Atlanta Braves, beaten by the Mets in the league's divisional playoff, led in fielding with a .981 average but the Mets and the Los Angeles Dodgers were right behind at .980 each.

The Braves committed only 115 errors in 162 games. The Mets had 122 and the Dodgers 126.

The Mets, however, didn't have any individual fielding leaders.

The Chicago Cubs and Atlanta fared best there.

Chicago's Ernie Banks led first basemen with an average of .997 and teammate Don Kessinger led shortstops with a .976. Atlanta's Felix Millan was the No. 1 second baseman with .980 and teammate Clete Boyer led third basemen with .965. Boyer also was the league leader in 1967.

Houston, St. Louis and San Francisco shared the other top individual fielding marks.

MILWAUKEE — The Warriors had to use a second-string center and an injured forward last night, and, as expected, lost to the Milwaukee Bucks — the third straight defeat.

The Bucks won, 123-109. San Francisco had to open with Dale Schuster at center, in place of the absent Nate Thurmond, and Joe Ellis at forward, in place of several players.

Thurmond had to attend his grandmother's funeral in Akron, Ohio yesterday and was not able to make it to Milwaukee in time for the game.

Ellis, although suffering from a torn tendon in the baby finger of his right hand, was forced to start because Dave Gambee — who had been playing in place of Ellis — injured his foot Thursday night.

Of course, the Warriors still were without the usual starter, Jerry Lucas, who has a broken hand.

Still, San Francisco, picking up the slack, was able to spurt into a 19-15 lead late in the first quarter and at the end of the period was ahead, 24-23.

San Francisco fell behind early in the second quarter, but then, with the surprising Schuster scoring over Alcindor and Jeff Mullins popping in a couple from the outside, took a 24-49 halftime lead.

The Warriors were ahead at intermission despite watching Milwaukee get a tremendous advantage on the free throw line in the second period.

The Bucks shot 15 free throws in that quarter to four for San Francisco.

Joe Ellis had 11 points for the Warriors at the half, as San Francisco made 36.8 per cent of its shots as compared to 40 per cent for Milwaukee.

Even though without Thurmond and Lucas, San Francisco still dominated the boards, out-rebounding Milwaukee by 10 at the half. Schuster had 11 rebounds, while Lew Alcindor Milwaukee had only 10.

Schuster, a second-year man from Colorado State who has about as much finesse as a longshoreman, made five of six shot attempts in the half, out-scoring and out-playing the taller more-talented Alcindor.

Ellis, obviously bothered by the finger, made only four of 14 field goal attempts and Fritz Williams got only one of 11. Still the Warriors led.

That margin was increased to seven, 56-49, in the opening minutes of the third quarter, but Milwaukee came storming back, scoring six in a row at one point, and surged into a seven-point lead, 65-61.

Jon McGlockin was the big gun for Milwaukee, hitting three straight jump shots during the rally.

Bob Lewis cut a point off that difference, but buckets by Greg Smith's and Alcindor made it, 72-62, Milwaukee with 6:27 left in the third quarter.

Poor Shooting Gives Los Molinos Trouble

Los Molinos Bulldogs took an amazing total of 80 shots in their game last night against Princeton. Unfortunately, not very many of these shots went in the basket and the Bulldogs dropped a 68 to 47 decision.

The game was fairly close the first half with Princeton leaving the court ahead by five points, 30 to 25. But the Bulldogs shooting turned into ice cubes in the second half. They wound up hitting only 19 of 80 shots, for a 21 per cent shooting mark. The number of shots taken was impressive for a high school team but the number of shots missed was equally impressive.

Center Steve Woodill led the Bulldogs scoring with 16 points. Kevin Brunnermer helped out with another 12.

The junior varsity continued their winning ways, defeating Princeton in the preliminary game. Greg Farley was high scorer with 20 points.

Los Molinos is back in action tonight at home. They play Fort Jones. The junior varsity game begins at 6 and the varsity at 7:30.

Giants Give Up Pitchers

The Giants made two multi-player trades yesterday, giving up left-handed pitcher Ray Sadecki and outfielder Jim Marshall in one and right-handed Bobby Bolin in the other.

San Francisco obtained shortstop Bob Heise and outfielder Jim Gosger from the New York Mets for Sadecki and Marshall, while Bolin, 30, was sent to Seattle for outfielder Steve Whitaker and Dick Simpson.

Heise, 22, and Gosger, 27, performed most of last year with the Mets' farm club at Tidewater. Gosger also played briefly for the Oakland A's in 1968. Heise, all-International League shortstop, hit .282, and Gosger batted .346.

Sadecki, a 20-game winner with St. Louis in 1964, never lived up to his promise with the Giants who obtained him for Orland Cepeda in 1967. He was 5-8 last year. Marshall played in 110 games with the Giants last year while Bolin was 7-7.

Whitaker, originally property of the New York Yankees, had six homers in 69 games with the Pilots last year. Simpson, 26, who was assigned to the Giant Phoenix farm club, batted .192 in 32 games with Seattle.

This was the third deal the Giants have concluded in the last three weeks. Earlier, they sent infielder Bob Etheridge, catcher Bob Burton and pitcher Ron Herrel to San Diego for relief pitcher Frank Reberger.

NY Mets Winning Formula

CINCINNATI (AP) — The world champion New York Mets may not have been a powerful hitting club but their pitching and fielding records tell quite a story as to why they won the National League pennant.

Official league averages showed previously that the Mets were second in pitching. The fielding averages, released today, showed they also were tied for second in that category. They were only eighth in batting.

The Atlanta Braves, beaten by the Mets in the league's divisional playoff, led in fielding with a .981 average but the Mets and the Los Angeles Dodgers were right behind at .980 each.

The Braves committed only 115 errors in 162 games. The Mets had 122 and the Dodgers 126.

The Mets, however, didn't have any individual fielding leaders.

The Chicago Cubs and Atlanta fared best there. Chicago's Ernie Banks led first basemen with an average of .997 and teammate Don Kessinger led shortstops with a .976.

Atlanta's Felix Millan was the No. 1 second baseman with .980 and teammate Cleve Boyer led third basemen with .965. Boyer also was the league leader in 1967.

Houston, St. Louis and San Francisco shared the other top individual fielding marks.

HANDS — Hands on defense, hands on rebounds, hot shooting hands — it was all too much for Douglas as Red Bluff rolled over them last night. Here, Dennis Poulton, 12, grabs rebound for Spartans as Don Jasielum, 25, and Scott Smith go up with him. Two helping hands stand-by just in case.

Next Year In Boston

By PHIL ELDERKIN
Sports writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Boston
The opportunity to knock is there.

But Red Auerbach, the general manager of the last-place Boston Celtics, so far has preferred another route. Auerbach is giving away hope the way some people distribute political handbills.

Red feels the Celtics can become a pro basketball power again as early as next season. And he may be right if (1) Larry Siegfried was not serious the other day when he said he might retire; (2) the team's two rookies, guard Jo Jo White and forward Steve Kuberski, improve enough to be starters or close to it; and (3) the Celtics finish last and are able to draft 6 ft. 11 in. center Br

Lanier of St. Bonaventure.

For No. 3 to happen, Boston would also have to win a coin flip with the league's other division tallender (probably Seattle) for the rights to Lanier. Auerbach describes Big Bob as a loosey-goosey pivotman, who was rusted out of the same herd as Baltimore's Wes Unseld.

The most popular way to beat the Celtics this year is to drive the middle — because if you don't get to the basket you've got a great chance to get the foul. Lanier has the size and quickness to eliminate that.

Boston fans, as if they didn't already know, have learned that hustle is no substitute for Russell. Nor are four guns the equal of one, providing that one belongs to Sam Jones.

Rookie coaches, like rookie ballplayers, often make telling mistakes. And Tommy Heinsohn is a rookie coach.

Whether Heinsohn has registered good, fair or poor on Auerbach's applause meter is hard to say. If Red is second-guessing his coach, he is doing it privately. In fact, he has given Heinle the same mantle of protectiveness with the press that he earlier hung on Russell.

Yet there are some things you cannot ignore. Floor unity used to be so much a part of the Celtics' game that it is strange now to watch Boston players throw the ball away so often. With Russell gone, the Celtics do not come to defend anymore.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: "Been There's" frontal attack on divorced fathers was unfair. We are not all "rats" because we don't see our children. I am a badly wounded veteran of the battle for custody and I hope you will print my letter in the name of justice.

I tried, without success, to get custody of my three emotionally disturbed children. It seems that only a mother who is a proven drug addict, an alcoholic or a prostitute is considered "unfit." My ex-wife had a history of mental illness complete with psychotic episodes, but it didn't mean a thing. I lost and she won.

After the divorce, every visit with my children was a traumatic experience for them and a nightmare for me. Their mother brainwashed them so thoroughly that they viewed me as a monster. When I took them out for dinner, they were nervous and tense and couldn't eat. I couldn't eat either. I knocked myself out trying to make our time together exciting, educational, fun. It didn't work. Finally, after developing an ulcer, I decided it wasn't worth it. After considerable soul-searching and professional advice, I decided to sever all ties except the support checks. It was a heartbreaking decision, but it was best for everyone concerned. I'm not the only father who has gone through the agony of losing his kids. You owe it to all of us to print this letter. Sign me — A Very Sad Dad

Dear Dad: Here's your letter. And my heart goes out to you all.

Dear Ann Landers: For a long time I wondered why I couldn't make friends. It bothered me terribly but I was never smart enough to look for the reason where I SHOULD have looked. Inside myself. For years I found fault with everyone and blamed them for not accepting me. I told myself they were jealous of me or they were inconsiderate, or stupid or snobbish. I manufactured a whole list of reasons why I wasn't liked.

A few weeks ago I read something in our church bulletin. It opened my eyes to the real problem.

Here's the line that changed my life: "The only way to have a friend is to be one." I hope you think it is worth printing, Ann. Maybe it will help someone else — Blue Hills

Dear B. H.: I DO think it is worth printing. In fact, I thought so ten years ago when I printed it for the first time. Whoever puts your church bulletin together has a wonderful file system or a fine memory.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is an intelligent, level-headed girl. We are having a difference in opinion and would like to hear what you have to say. Marie feels she is doing her friends a favor when she corrects their mistakes in grammar and pronunciation. I say it is no favor, it is just plain rude and any benefit that might come from a correction is completely negated by the embarrassment — especially when others are present. We are both eager to hear what you have to say. — Marie Versus Mother

Dear M. V.M.: Rare, indeed, is the person who appreciates being corrected in the presence of others. If Marie wishes to do a friend a favor she should wait until they are alone.

Ann Landers' book, "Truth Is Stranger," a collection of her best columns over the past 14 years is available at book stores. It can also be obtained by writing Prentice Hall, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Price, $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Investigate Guru Of The Beatles

NEW DELHI (AP) — The personalities, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is being investigated by the Indian government for allegedly maintaining a bank account abroad.

Finance Minister P.C. Sethi told Parliament Maharishi has been given a formal notice asking him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for having an unauthorized account.

Sethi made the announcement after another member of the Indian Parliament asked if the government knew Maharishi had recently purchased a $33,600 Rolls Royce in London and if the government had given him permission to establish an overseas account.

More Soap Opera

Soap operas continue to become more important day-time commodities. ABC will soon launch three more on its network channels one next month and two in March. The March shows will start when the network expands its daytime schedule by an hour, starting at 11 a.m. instead of noon, as it does now.

COINED IN NEW YORK

The word "taxicab" was coined and copyrighted in New York. "Taxi" came from a French company that made taximetres for horse carriages; "cab" abbreviates the French word cabriolet.

Interesting Series Is Movie Of Week

"Movie of the Week," the artfully named 90-minute anthology series, manages to come up with better scripts and interesting characters often more often than those more elaborate and star-studded two-hour features.

This week's program was an adaptation of a Paul Gallico story, a dandy mixture of espionage and apparitions. It was the story of a professor, working in a sensitive field, who sees the ghost of and hears the voice of his recently deceased young daughter.

Ray Milland and Gene Tierney, neither of whom have been seen on television recently, played the puzzled professor and his doubting wife.

No Retirement Yet, Moans Bing Crosby

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I suppose I really should retire. After I've been 40-some years in this business, people are going to start saying, 'Why the hell doesn't he quit?'"

Bing Crosby was talking, not too seriously, I hope. His retirement would leave a large void in the ranks of the great performers. And there's really no need for it. Not when Bing can amble through a television special with his famed senility, collect the money and hustle back to his family in Northern California or to his hunting and fishing.

He was in town for one of his periodic appearances, this time co-starring with Carol Burnett in "Together Again for the First Time," a special which will appear on NBC Dec. 18. Bing sings "White Christmas," natch, and capers with guest stars Juliet Prowse and Roy Clark.

Bing spoke rather wistfully about retirement between rehearsals for the special, then explained why it wasn't practical.

"I have some hefty commitments to charities every year. As long as I'm working, I can donate up to 30 per cent of my salaries to the charities. If I didn't work, I would have to take the money out of principal, and that's not such a good idea."

"So I do about 15 appearances a year. That includes American Sportsman, my golf tournament, the Hollywood Palace, Dean Martin, Hope, Carol Burnett, Jackie Gleason and some others."

"You figure two-three days for each show, and that comes to a couple of months work each year. That's about the way I like it."

Bing added that he spends a lot of time at home with the children in Burlingame, south of San Francisco. He maintains a heavy correspondence, for causes he is concerned with, notably Ducks Unlimited, Trout Unlimited and other conservation groups.

Audience Previews Johnny Cash Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC, probably quite unwittingly, provided air time Wednesday night for a preview of "The Johnny Cash Show" which next month will have its midseason premiere in the same time slot on rival ABC.

The popular country and western singer was the star of a "Music Hall" show and a tune-fest hour it was, with songs ranging from the 1870 "Rain, Rain, Rain No More" to the 1969, "Is That All There Is?" It was a forceful demonstration how far country and western has traveled in the past three years: Cash worked with guest star Peggy Lee, about as city and eastern style singer as there is around, and it came off as smooth as silk.

The theme of the hour did not fit the stars and their style as comfortably as the music. Most of the songs were introduced by Cash reading excerpts from Carl Sandburg, and it was all just a little too majestic and high flown. Cash seemed more at ease when, guitar over shoulder, he was singing his own songs.

"Music Hall" has been quietly around for several seasons, steadily picking up larger audiences. Now it has moved into the top third of the Nielsen list, an ascent that seems tied up with a format of making each weekly show a sort of special for comics like Alan King and singers like Cash and Eddie Arnold.

The series that follows, "Then Came Bronson," has to be one of NBC's major disappointments of the season. The series, shot entirely on location, is offbeat and distinctive. But somehow it just doesn't seem to be cutting it in the ratings and its future after this season is uncertain.

Wednesday night's episode had the peripatetic hero, Bronson, finding another solitary motorcyclist stranded with engine trouble outside Phoenix. In spite of rebuffs from the cyclist, a young and very hostile Negro, he helped get the machine to a garage and helped pay the excessive charge for repairs.

The rest of the story centered on the other man's problems—finding money to repay Bronson and making his peace with his alienated family in Phoenix.

Michael Parks as Bronson has an interesting reserve and laconic manner. Robert Hooks acquitted himself well as the angry young Negro—a character which threatens to become a television stereotype.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: "Been There's" frontal attack on divorced fathers was unfair. We are not all "rats" because we don't see our children. I am a badly wounded veteran of the battle for custody and I hope you will print my letter in the name of justice.

I tried, without success, to get custody of my three emotionally disturbed children. It seems that only a mother who is a proven drug addict, an alcoholic or a prostitute is considered "unfit." My ex-wife had a history of mental illness complete with psychotic episodes, but it didn't mean a thing. I lost and she won.

After the divorce, every visit with my children was a traumatic experience for them and a nightmare for me. Their mother brainwashed them so thoroughly that they viewed me as a monster. When I took them out for dinner, they were nervous and tense and couldn't eat. I couldn't eat either. I knocked myself out trying to make our time together exciting, educational, fun. It didn't work. Finally, after developing an ulcer, I decided it wasn't worth it. After considerable soul-searching and professional advice, I decided to sever all ties except the support checks. It was a heartbreaking decision, but it was best for everyone concerned. I'm not the only father who has gone through the agony of losing his kids. You owe it to all of us to print this letter. Sign me — A Very Sad Dad

Dear Dad: Here's your letter. And my heart goes out to you all.

Dear Ann Landers: For a long time I wondered why I couldn't make friends. It bothered me terribly but I was never smart enough to look for the reason where I SHOULD have looked. Inside myself. For years I found fault with everyone and blamed them for not accepting me. I told myself they were jealous of me or they were inconsiderate, or stupid or snobbish. I manufactured a whole list of reasons why I wasn't liked.

A few weeks ago I read something in our church bulletin. It opened my eyes to the real problem.

Here's the line that changed my life: "The only way to have a friend is to be one."

I hope you think it is worth

printing, Ann. Maybe it will help someone else — Blue Hills

Dear B. H.: I DO think it is worth printing. In fact, I thought so ten years ago when I printed it for the first time. Whoever puts your church bulletin together has a wonderful file system or a fine memory.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is an intelligent, level-headed girl. We are having a difference in opinion and would like to hear what you have to say. Marie feels she is doing her friends a favor when she corrects their mistakes in grammar and pronunciation. I say it is no favor, it is just plain rude and any benefit that might come from a correction is completely negated by the embarrassment — especially when others are present. We are both eager to hear what you have to say. — Marie Versus Mother

Dear M. V.M.: Rare, indeed, is the person who appreciates being corrected in the presence of others. If Marie wishes to do a friend a favor she should wait until they are alone.

Ann Landers' book, "Truth Is Stranger," a collection of her best columns over the past 14 years is available at book stores. It can also be obtained by writing Prentice Hall, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Price, $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Investigate Guru Of The Beatles

NEW DELHI (AP) — The personalities, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is being investigated by the Indian government for allegedly maintaining a bank account abroad.

Finance Minister P.C. Sethi told Parliament Maharishi has been given a formal notice asking him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for having an unauthorized account. Sethi made the announcement after another member of the Indian Parliament asked if the government knew Maharishi had recently purchased a $33,600 Rolls Royce in London and if the government had given him permission to establish an overseas account.

More Soap Opera

Soap operas continue to become more important day-time commodities. ABC will soon launch three more on its network channels one next month and two in March. The March shows will start when the network expands its daytime schedule by an hour, starting at 11 a.m. instead of noon, as it does now.

COINED IN NEW YORK

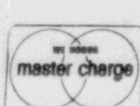

The word "taxicab" was coined and copyrighted in New York. "Taxi" came from a French company that made taximetres for horse carriages; "cab" abbreviates the French word cabriolet.
